City girl Falkia Khan
'Brand Ambassador' of Swachh Survekshan-2023

Mayor Shivakumar greeting Falkia Khan with a bouquet on her appointment as Brand Ambassador of Swachh Survekshan-2023 at her residence in city yesterday as others look on.

Mysuru, Aug. 18 (RK&BS)- Falkia Khan, a teenager of the city, has been appointed as Brand Ambassador of Swachh Survekshan-2023.

Swachh Survekshan is the world's largest urban sanitation and cleanliness survey. The primary goal of Swachh Survekshan-2023 is to encourage large scale citizen participation and create awareness amongst all sections of society about the importance of working together towards making towns and cities better places to reside in.

A resident of Rajivnagar 2nd Stage, Falkia was handed over the appointment letter by Mayor Shivakumar at her house yesterday.

Falkia Khan is a 1st PU student at St. Joseph's College in Sathagalli. She is the daughter of marble and granite businessman Ajajulla Khan and Farheen Khan couple.

'Shakti' rush during Dasara:
KSRTC seeks 300 more buses

Mysuru, Aug. 18 (MTY&DM)- Anticipating that the State Government's 'Shakti' free bus rides for women within the State may trigger a huge rush during Dasara-2023, which is just two months away, the KSRTC Mysuru Division has reportedly sought 300 additional buses to meet the Dasara festival rush.

In the past, Mysuru Division with support from Mandya and Chamarajanagar KSRTC divisions, used to increase its fleet during Mysuru Dasara to meet the rush of commuters. But this year, with Shakti scheme in place and the rush would be more than the previous years, the Mysuru Division is said to be in consultation with KSRTC divisions in other neighbouring districts such as Hassan and Chikkamagaluru, in addition to Mandya and Chamarajanagar.

With the start of Shravana Month, the number of commuters is set to increase with a series of festivals and marriage season ahead followed by Dasara in October (Oct. 15 to 24).

KSRTC Mysuru Divisional Controller (DC) G. Srinivas told Star of Mysore that "KSRTC Central Office in Bengaluru is yet to give any directions regarding adding 300 more buses since there is still time for Dasara. He pointed out that, however, the Mysuru Division on its part was in talks with the neighbouring Divisions for increasing the fleet strength to handle Dasara rush."

Continuing, Srinivas said Mysuru Division had roped in 240 additional buses from Mandya and Chamarajanagar divisions, which operated in select routes during Dasara.But this year, due to the launch of 'Shakti' scheme, there will be a bigger rush and hence the Division has sought 300 additional buses.

"Mysuru Division with all its nine depots put together, runs nearly 1,000 schedules daily of which there are 300 trips to Bengaluru alone, including luxury and premium services. This schedule is certainly to go up during Dasara and the Division has started preparations in anticipation of the rush," he said.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

As individual human beings, we are of various hues. Diversity is not merely the strength of our unity, it is its source, foundation and subtlest structure also. In our interpersonal interactions, diversity calls for not just accommodating others' behaviours but also accepting them, even when they may not align with our personal sense of aesthetics. And, most of us are fine with our sense of accepting all kinds of behaviours as long as we are neither looked down upon nor the violation of civic norms is committed in any manner.

Negotiation for space to resolve cultural differences and preserve their authenticity and sovereignty is a continuous process, especially in this age of fast-changing technology and intense globalisation of human skills. By accepting all kinds of behaviour we humbly concede that, as human beings, we haven't yet explored all that exists in the sky within (which is the domain of spirituality) and, the sky beyond (which is the domain of science). People who fight in the name of religion need also accept with humility that there is much to explore and understand beyond our current understanding of our own religion and others.'

Life is precious. Only when we trust one another more than our beliefs can we truly experience and embody the values of love, respect and empathy. Even if we consider the possibility of a benevolent unknown entity, it is through our consciousness and conscience that any intervention can take place, rather than compassion being bestowed from the skies. There have always been people amongst us who lived those values. That's how trust in humanity has not been eroded altogether by divinity.

Vox populi vox dei means the voice of the people is the voice of the divine. Dyaus, Dei or Zeus in various languages refer to the sky or an unknown divine. The media, judiciary, politicians and religious preachers all claim to voice the voice of the people, the voiceless, or the voice of the divine.

Where is the voice of sanity in the cacophony of all these colourful claims? Diversity in voice dawns upon one's heart only when all colours are transcended. Diversity flourishes in transparency.

Vertical pods that let you sleep standing up

Tokyo: The Giraffenap is a new style of sleeping pod that encourages power naps during the day as a way of improving concentration and work efficiency.

Japan is a notoriously a hard-working country that emphasizes extreme dedication to one's work even at the cost of that person's health or general wellbeing. Working conditions can get so bad that the Japanese language actually has a term for 'death by overwork' (karoshi). In order to put up with this kind of grueling schedule and stress, some Japanese workers turn to short power naps. These are known to boost energy levels and concentration, as long as the person doesn't go into deep sleep. In order to make it easier for people to get power naps pretty much anywhere, one company has begun installing vertical sleeping pods called 'Gireaffenap' in cafes all over the country.

But she had to move to Russia for 15 years, where, she had no access to green papayas. She tried it with other fruits and vegetables, but nothing was like the papaya. When she went back to Hanoi in 2009, she immediately got back into papaya sculpting, and she has been practicing the craft ever since.

Concern over the safety of commuters on Expressway

Sir,

The two recent robberies by bike-borne riders on Mysuru-Bengaluru Expressway (Star of Mysore dated Aug. 14) are shocking and looks very strange as only just a few days ago the officials had banned two-wheelers and autos on the Expressway.

It indicates that either the prohibition is not strictly being implemented or there are unauthorised entry points to this Expressway enabling such miscreants to enter and target helpless commuters. Earlier it was also reported that some vehicles were avoiding certain toll gates and entering service roads to avoid paying toll fees.

Are these service roads accessible to one and all and not barricaded for unauthorised entry of vehicles? The authorities concerned have to look into this to plug such loopholes and provide safety to toll-paying commuters on this Expressway.

Farmers lay siege to KRS Dam in protest against release of Cauvery water to Tamil Nadu

Mysuru, Aug.18- Strongly condemning the Government's action of releasing Cauvery water to Tamil Nadu, hundreds of farmers under the leadership of KRRS leader and Melukote MLA Darshan Puttannaiah laid siege to KRS Dam in Srirangapatna taluk of Mandya district yesterday.

Terming the Government's action of releasing water from KRS Reservoir to Tamil Nadu at a time when the Dam is yet to fill up as deplorable, the farmers urged the Government to immediately stop release of water in the interests of the farmers of Mysuru region.

Raising slogans against the Government, the protestors wanted the Government to convince the Supreme Court on Karnataka's plight and thus come to the rescue of the state's farmers.

Strongly condemning Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar's comments that farmers can knock on the doors of the Court, the protestors lashed out at D.K. Shivakumar for his irresponsible comments while being a Minister.

Alleging that the State has been releasing large quantity of water to Tamil Nadu, while at the same time restricting release of water to canals, the farmers wanted the Government to release water in canals regularly in the interests of Karnataka farmers.

KRRS Mandya District President A.L. Kempugowda, leaders Prasannagowda, Jayaramegowda and others were present.

Birth centenary year tribute to T. S. Satyan

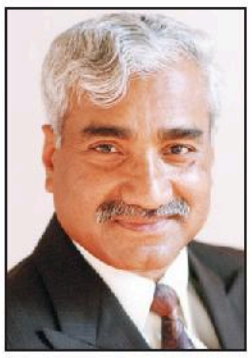
T.S. Satyan
18.12.1923 - 13.12.2009

By C. Chandrashekar, IPS

It happened a long time ago. Was it 1967 or '68? I'm not sure. It happened during my student days when exploring and discovering Mysore was a passion. For someone like me with a strong rural background, Mysore was an overwhelming fascination. Whenever I had the time, I simply walked — lost looking at the magnificent buildings built by the Maharajas of Mysore. These walks had no definite direction. I didn't even know the names of these roads. Where I was headed was least of the concerns.



C. Chandrashekar

It was a hot afternoon and arriving in the city from my hostel, I decided to explore the Devaraja Market through the Chikka Gadiyara (Small Clock Tower). Emerging from the overcrowded market on to Sayyaji Rao Road, I found a radio shop on to my left which also sold gramophone records. Dhanvanthri Road, K.R. Hospital and finally Mysore Medical College to my right — a place which I had thought would fulfil my dreams of a career in Medicine.

Though I had not walked a lot, the sweltering heat made me seek shelter — any place with a roof above was a welcome thought. A display board attracted my attention. "Photo Exhibition. Photographer: T. S. Satyan." Some relief I thought !

Photography was a new field and some friends did talk about LIFE magazine as a new window of exploration.

In retrospect, I realise that the venue of the exhibition was the Office of Information Department. It was located next to the Railway Offices separated by a road.

The spacious hall was nearly empty as I entered the place. There was a small write up on the photographer T.S. Satyan — a name I was not familiar with. Large poster size black and white prints adorned the walls. What gripped my attention was the subject, mostly rural India. A certain progression in the subjects — from the young to the old. Pictures showing a great array of activities — from a market place to young nearly naked boys jumping into water. I had not seen pictures of this quality. They got imprinted on my young mind permanently. With the invisible press of a button they appear before mind with great clarity even now. That is the impact.

I do not know for how long I was at the exhibition. As I was walking out of the venue, I saw a Visitors' Book kept on a table. Being impulsive, I suddenly decided to write something for which I have never forgiven myself. A false sense of pride of being knowledgeable. Maybe I wanted to project myself as a person who 'knew' photography which was still emerging as an art form. Silly brat, all of 18, wrote "In Satyan, we have a world-class photographer."

I was totally ignorant of Satyan's reputation as a photo-journalist across the globe. His contribution was such that he had already been recognised by the United Nations. Where can I hide if Satyan saw my remarks !

Unsteady on my feet, somehow I tottered to the Railway Station Circle (as it was known then) and took Route No. 10 to reach my hostel before it was too late.

A decade later. The year is 1978. I was undergoing practical training as a Police probationer in Shivamogga. I was lucky to have been introduced to Shesha Chandrika, who is now reckoned as one of the most respected journalists in Karnataka. At his house, during one of our many meetings, I saw smaller prints of some pictures I had seen in the Mysore exhibition. My friend was quick to observe my special interests. He casually remarked, "When you get married, one of these pictures will be my wedding gift to you." Very generous I thought. A picture by T. S. Satyan was never presented to me. My marriage with Roopa many years later was strictly a small private affair.

Another big leap and the year is 2000, a new millennium. I was Commissioner of Police in Mysore. My endeavour was to learn more about when and how it was possible to produce such prodigious minds during the 1930s and '40s at the Maharaja's College. I was fortunate to meet and interact with Satyan on many occasions. In his inimitable style, he shared his experiences of Mysore and in different parts of the world. A man truly with a global perspective and endowed with the proverbial photographic memory like no one else that I have known. He could tell you when, where, why and how a certain picture was taken including the aperture speed.

His two books In Love With Life and Alive and Clicking, with the former autographed by him, have a special place in my library. With no halo around him even after having been a part of the prestigious UN bodies, Satyan remained deeply rooted to Mysore, his dear perpetual place as Yeats would have described. Whenever he was invited out to spend some time with us, his only condition was that he had to return home early due to domestic exigencies. It was always my privilege to drop him home.

The many meetings I have had with Satyan make me remember my tenure in Mysore with a sense of gratitude that I had such splendid opportunities to learn about great personalities — be it academics, politics and photography in Mysore and across the globe.

On 13th December 2009, my friend Ashvini Ranjan gave me the sad news of Satyan's demise. Though short in built, he was a very tall figure in every respect. With him has gone an era of the glorious days of Maharaja's College and perhaps the last man of whatever Mysore stood for. But I can't believe that Satyan will not meet me anymore. With him around, an evening was unfailingly bright, eventful and educative.

Last word: Soon after Satyan's demise, I wrote this tribute and sent it to Star of Mysore which was never published. It was 'lost' was the answer given. I spoke to KBG, who said he would publish it on a special occasion which I think is now (the birth centenary year of the legendary photographer).

What is written here is the reconstruction of my thoughts in December 2009 and culled out from my memoirs under writing. We have the distinction of being photographed by Satyan. They are invaluable ▪

T. S. Satyan's book In Love With Life, autographed by him, adorns my library.

MCC's final warning to cattle, pig-rearers

Mysuru, Aug. 18 (BS)- Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) has warned of action against pig and cattle-rearers, if the animals are let loose on the road, affecting smooth flow of traffic.

According to a press release from MCC Commissioner's Office, it is stated that "Those rearing pigs and cattle in MCC limits and the outskirts are leaving the animals in public places, which are causing a severe traffic hurdle, sometimes leading to fatal accidents. The stray cattle feeding on leftover food in the dustbins are spilling them on the road, causing environment pollution. Apart from proving hazardous to the health of general public, the hygiene of the city is also being affected. Even though discussions were held in this regard and strict instructions were given against letting loose the pigs in public places, the pigs often surface."

It is essential to control the menace of stray pigs in public places in MCC limits. Hence a final warning is being given to pig-rearers, who within one week from the date of this notice should rear their cattle and pigs by tethering them in their own places.

If these animals are found in public places and roads, regulatory action will be taken without any prior notice to its owners, MCC Commissioner has warned in the press release.

Workshop on urban ecological aspects of Mysuru's water bodies

Lingambudhi Catchment Zone-6 and Yennehole Catchment Zone-5.

Mysuru, Aug. 18 (BCT)- The Mysore School of Architecture (MSA) recently organised a technical workshop titled 'Urban Ecological Blues and Greens - A Study of Mysuru's Streams and Lakes' at their campus near Lingambudhi Lake.

The event saw the participation of key stakeholders, including officials from planning and engineering departments, the Zoo Authority of Karnataka, NGOs like Water Forum, Mysore Nature and Namma Mysuru Foundation, as well as organisations like the Indian Green Building Congress (IGBC) and the Indian Institute of Architects (IIA).

Scientists, academicians, environmentalists and concerned citizens also attended to provide valuable feedback on the extensive study conducted.

Dean Dr. H.S. Champa provided an overview of the studio journey, drawing parallels between the initiatives of conservationist U.N. Ravikumar through the 'Water Forum' and the VTU curriculum's focus on waterfront development, emphasised by Prof. Ranbir Mudaliar, Design Chair, MSA.

MSA's 8th-semester Bachelor of Architecture students undertook an in-depth study on the urban ecological aspects of Mysuru's streams and lakes. The study involved fieldwork, Geographic Information Systems (GIS) analysis, interviews, questionnaires and referencing policies, National Green Tribunal (NGT) guidelines and more.

Comprehensive approach

This comprehensive approach led to identifying vulnerable points, opportunities for improvement and proposed solutions. Inputs from experts and stakeholders continuously refined the findings.

The students put forth measures to enhance water quality, protect ecosystems, mitigate urban heat islands and promote sustainable stream and lake usage. Erosion control, riparian zones, pollution prevention, waste regulation, habitat restoration, community spaces, and enforcing regulations were among the suggested actions. Demonstrations showcased practical design ideas, effectively illustrating proposed solutions.

Participants were divided into groups based on catchment areas for focused discussions, enhancing relevance. Students presented their work through various mediums, facilitating informed feedback. Environmentalist U.N. Ravikumar commended the initiative and suggested better communication channels.

Retd. ISRO Scientist Prof. Jagannath proposed applying the United Nations Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (UNIPCC) model, while IGBC Chairman Ar. Ramakrishna Rao emphasised ecological restoration. Various experts shared insights, stressing urgency and practicality in addressing issues.

Ecological restoration

Ar. Ramakrishna Rao urged the participants to recognise the urgent need to protect these essential elements for the city's and its inhabitants' well-being, citing examples from Japan and advocating for ecological restoration over mere retrofitting.

In addition to technical suggestions, guests advised conducting similar workshops involving government departments, exhibiting findings publicly, awareness programmes, and public participation.

The workshop effectively aligned students, faculty and stakeholders' efforts, generating practical outcomes. Diverse perspectives aimed to enhance ongoing work. By involving varied backgrounds and catchment areas, the workshop gathered extensive insights.

It showcased the commitment to preserving Mysuru's ecological balance, fostering collaboration and innovative solutions for the city's challenges. The collective effort aims to create a sustainable and resilient future, safeguarding Mysuru's natural heritage for generations to come.

Trustee of MSA Dr. Lakshmi Devi, Managing Trustee J.N. Motorists suffer as rubber humps come up 'overnight'

Several two-wheeler riders injured with unscientific speed-breakers laid in city, sans any caution boards, blinkers or reflective tapes/ stickers

Mysuru, Aug. 18 (RK&BS)- The unscientifically laid rubber road humps at various places in the city have been proving a threat to vehicle riders.

Following the request of Traffic Police, Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) has laid road humps overnight on five to six roads in the city including Male Mahadeshwara road that connects Nazarbad and Siddarthanagar, GST Bhavan at Siddarthanagar and Sangeetha Corner. However, the humps are devoid of blinkers, reflective tapes/ stickers or even the caution board for the riders.

As the black and yellow striped hump almost resembles the colour of the asphalted road, it is even difficult to notice the difference. Owing to the same reason, most of the riders fail to identify the hump and ride over it, only to lose balance and fall off, suffering injuries. As it has been laid overnight, the daily commuters on the road are falling victims.

Apart from two-wheelers, even autorickshaws and cars are experiencing the inconvenience. If the auto drivers make a bid to ride over the hump speedily, the chances of handle turning either way resulting in it overturning cannot be ignored. Similar is the case with small cars, which may end up ramming vehicles coming in the opposite direction. While it is said that, several vehicle riders have been hospitalised for the injuries suffered in freak accidents caused due to these road humps, Mohan Kayaka a reporter of Mysuru Mithra (sister publication of Star of Mysore) is the latest victim.

Unaware of the speed breaker that was laid overnight, Kayaka who was riding home late in the night on Aug. 14 after work, met with a self-accident on Male Mahadeshwara Road. Kayaka who fell off the vehicle, suffered a fracture in his right shoulder and also injuries on his leg. As he was wearing helmet at that time, the possibilities of head injuries was averted. Kayaka who was rushed to the nearby Shanthaveri Gopala Gowda Hospital was operated upon for the shoulder fracture and was discharged on Aug. 16 night. He is recuperating at home, with no threat to his life.

Kayaka said "I had passed through the same road in the afternoon (on the day of accident), but there was no hump. It was not there in the evening also. It has been laid overnight, but the colour is ditto like that of the road. Neither any reflectors are put or any streetlight facility, even though two such humps are laid nearby."

It is said that, three vehicle riders have met with a similar accidents due to these road humps, due to the lack of precautionary measures and vision on the part of authorities concerned, leaving the general public to suffer.

According to the guidelines associated with road humps, the speed breakers are laid to prevent accidents. Before laying the speed breakers, the porous points should be identified and the thickness and type will be decided as per the gravity of the situation. To enable motorists, caution boards must be installed at a distance, besides painting the humps with a white strip. However, all these are missing in the newly installed road humps.

Strangely, neither the Police Officers under whose supervision the road humps are to be laid are aware nor the MCC about who laid the rubber humps overnight, mooting a question- who did it then?

Is it possible by private parties? If yes, whether Police or MCC will initiate action against them? Who will bear the expenses of those who are left to suffer due to these humps? These are the questions asked by general public.

U-turns on Ring Road turn new black spots

Heavy vehicles headed towards industrial areas move on main carriageway in opposite direction ignoring service roads

Mysuru, Aug. 18 (GA&BS)- Heavy Motor Vehicles (HMVs) are recklessly manoeuvring along the Outer-Ring Road (ORR) within the city, sparking concerns among fellow road users. This behaviour necessitates heightened caution, particularly when navigating the U-turn curves.

The Outer Ring Road witnesses the daily passage of thousands of vehicles, including HMVs carrying various goods to industrial zones at Hebbal, Metagalli and Koorgalli, relying heavily on these routes. Regrettably, these HMVs are disregarding proper road etiquette and safety protocols, endangering the lives of innocent road users.

Contrary to the designated protocol of utilising the Service Road after executing a U-turn on the Outer Ring Road, HMVs are persistently travelling on the main carriageway in the opposite direction. Numerous instances have arisen where motorcyclists, motorists and cyclists have been caught off-guard, resulting in accidents.

For instance, despite the presence of barricades near Nada Prabhu Kempegowda Circle (Manipal Hospital Junction) on the Outer Ring Road, which links the Mysuru-Bengaluru Expressway, these barricades are consistently displaced to accommodate U-turns that lead to another turn near Central Institute of Petrochemicals Engineering & Technology (CIPET), Mysuru.

By rule, vehicles bound for industrial areas from the Outer Ring Road should execute a U-turn at the intersection of Lok Nayaka Nagar and Jayadeva Nagar (close to Sai Exports).

In addition, most U-turns lack proper design, displaying irregular spacing between service roads, main roads and U-turn points. This inadequacy is frequently cited as a contributing factor to the occurrence of accidents. Furthermore, the sluggish progress of laying gas pipeline on service roads has exacerbated the issue. Road degradation and the installation-related barricades compel vehicles to utilise the main road.

Unfortunately, even other vehicle types, including motorcycles and cars, are mimicking the HMVs by travelling in the opposite direction on the main road, in violation of regulations. If the relevant authorities fail to implement effective measures, traffic-related issues will exacerbate, especially during peak hours when commuters are rushing to and from work.

Consequently, the Outer Ring Road risks at becoming another accident-prone area, a source of concern for the public. S. Jahnavi, DCP (Crime and Traffic) said that the Police will promptly identify areas along the Outer Ring Road where traffic violations are rampant and take appropriate action.

Clear unscientific road humps on service road of Mysuru-B'luru Expressway

Retired SP writes to ADGP (Traffic and Road Safety); 22 such speed breakers identified between Mysuru and Mandya

Shankare Gowda

Mysuru, Aug. 18 (RK&BS)- A retired Superintendent of Police (SP) has urged the authorities concerned to remove unscientifically laid speed breakers (road humps) on the Service Road of the Access Controlled 10-lane Mysuru-Bengaluru Expressway.

In his letter to ADGP (Traffic and Road Safety), dated Aug. 7, 2023, Shankare Gowda, who retired as SP (CESC Vigilance Squad), Mandya, has explained that "The decision to restrict tractors, two-wheelers, autos, bicycle and bullock carts to service road is a welcome step. However, the unscientifically laid road humps are proving a hurdle to vehicle riders."

Ironically, the speed breakers which are laid to prevent accidents are becoming the reason for accidents. The vehicle riders are unable to notice road humps during night time. Even if they are noticed in prior, it has become a cumbersome exercise to negotiate, especially for two-wheelers, three-wheelers and small cars, Shankare Gowda has explained in his letter.

As many as 22 such unscientific road humps are laid between Mysuru and Mandya alone. Though there is a hidden agenda behind forcing all the vehicle users to drive on the main carriageway of the Expressway to collect toll, we should judiciously look into the safety of service road users too, as the humps are sounding a death knell.

Hence in view of the safety of road users, inspect the service road along with Officials of National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) and if convinced about the issue, take measures to remove unscientific road humps, Shankare Gowda has urged in the letter.

WORD OF THE DAY

Perquisite

Pronunciation: PER-kwuh-zut.
Meaning: Perquisite refers to something extra that someone receives in addition to regular pay for doing a job. Perks, as in "job perks" is short for perquisite.
Origin: Looking to acquire a job loaded with perquisites, or perks (a synonym of perquisites)? Don't give up the search! Make plenty of inquiries, send out an exquisitely crafted résumé, follow up with queries, and be sure to meet most of the prerequisites of the job description. Your quest may result in your conquering of the job market. After all, perquisite comes from the Latin word perquirere, which, in turn, is from the prefix per-, meaning "thoroughly" and the verb quaerere, meaning "to ask" or "to seek."

It's not surprising that several other words in this paragraph come from quaerere as well — acquire, inquiries, exquisitely, queries, conquering, quest, and, of course, perk, which was formed by shortening and altering perquisite. Quaerere is also an ancestor of prerequisite, so we don't blame you if you mix up perquisite and prerequisite. You can tell the difference by remembering that a prerequisite can be a requirement needed before getting a job (pre- means "before"), while a perquisite is something extra you get after you've been hired.

THE ODD WORD

Pandect

Treatise covering the whole of a subject.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Gilding the lily

Meaning: The phrase 'Gilding the lily' indicates that something has been unnecessarily decorated or over-embellished.
Origin: Some scholars believe that Shakespeare came up with the term 'Gild the lily,' and that he did mention 'painting the lily' in his 1595 work, King John. The term 'paint the lily' was used again in the 20th century, meaning the same as 'Gild the lily.' The Newark Daily Advocate was among the first ever to put 'Gild the lily' in print, apparently re-quoting Shakespeare: "One may gild the lily and paint the rose, but to convey by words only an adequate idea of the hats and bonnets now exhibited absolutely passes human ability."
Example: "You don't need to wear so much makeup; it's just gilding the lily."
